It was Charity Week at Pride Place Primary School.

Class 2 were thinking of fundraising ideas.

“We could make a line of pennies,” suggested Joel.

“Great idea!” everyone agreed.

They made a special poster to take to parents asking them to donate pennies.

“Every penny helps,” said Mrs Nahal.

The day of the line of pennies arrived and all the children came to school with bags and pockets filled with pennies.

Some had just one, some had many, but every penny helped!

“Oh Sade,” said Mrs Nahal, “you’ve got some euros mixed in with your pennies!”

“Yes, we brought them back from our holiday in France, can we change them into pennies at the bank?”

They began to line up the pennies until the line went all the way across the room.

“We’ll have to go out into the corridor,” laughed Mrs Nahal.

“How long is the line?” wondered the class. They measured the distance to the door. It was 10 metres.

There were another 5 metres in the corridor!

“Well done everybody, we collected 750 pennies. Let’s work out how much it is in pounds,” said Mrs Nahal.

“There are 100 pennies in a pound so that means 750 pennies is worth £7.50.”

“I will need to take it to the bank and change it into notes and pound coins.”

The next day their line of pennies activity was mentioned in Pride Place News in an article about the school's charity job week. They were very proud of themselves for helping their chosen charity.
